

ABSTRACT

The present invention is useful as endurance improving agents or antifatigue agents for physical activities in broad sense, such as exercises requiring endurance, labor requiring repeated muscle exercise, and the like.

The present invention relates to endurance improving agents, antifatigue agents and AMPK activators, all of which contain catechins as an active ingredient.